Mark Greene

Mark worked in advertising in New York and is prepared to admit it. He is now Executive Director of the London Institute for Contemporary Christianity, and works as a speaker, writer and consultant specialising in work issues and contemporary culture.

His books include “Thank God it’s Monday,” “The Best Idea in the World” and “The Great Divide”.

Mark is married to Katriina and they have three exuberant teenagers - Matt, Tomas & Anna-Marie – and a dog called Spark.
